Re: Petition No. 30408955 to Install Underground Conduit and a Joint Pole Location at Cross Path Road and Old Ferry Road

Approved 12-1-2021 M

National Grid is proposing to install the following as indicated on the Petition with Plan:

- One JO pole #20-50 on Cross Path Road, beginning at a point approximately 85 feet north of the centerline of the intersection of Old Ferry Road for an underground primary riser; and
- Approximately 330 feet of 2 to 4 inch conduit bank encased in concrete for primary underground cable beginning at Pole 15 on Old Ferry Road to the proposed pole #20-50 on Cross Path Road. The installation includes 2 heavy duty handholes in the street.

DPW Engineering staff conducted a site visit, and the new pole location was field-staked by National Grid.

The proposed conduit, handholes, and pole are greater than 10 feet from drain pipes, sewer pipes, and manholes. There are no trees in the vicinity of the project area and no apparent interference of trees. There is an existing 6" asbestos concrete water main in Old Ferry Road and in Cross Path Road, installed in 1963. The proposed conduit in Old Ferry Road appears to be located to the north of the water main, but within 5 feet, running parallel. In addition, the conduit as proposed crosses the Cross Path Road water line. The burial depth of the water line in this area is unknown and therefore, National Grid must conduct a test pit to locate the depth of the existing water line at the crossing prior to construction.

The proposed conduit, handholes, and pole may be installed as proposed following test pits to determine the water line depth at the crossing location in Cross Path Road. National Grid must obtain an Excavation/Trench Permit and coordinate with the Water Division at 413-587-1570 24 hours prior to excavation of both the test pits and the conduit. The crossing shall maintain a minimum clear vertical separation of 18 inches from the water line and the conduit running parallel to the water main shall be offset by a minimum of 5 feet.

Per M.G.L. Consent Agenda

Consent Agenda
With the council's permission, Councilor Sciarra stated her intention to move the consent agenda up in the order of business.

There being no objection, Councilor Sciarra reviewed the items on the consent agenda, offering to remove any item for separate consideration upon request.

Councilor Dwight moved to approve the consent agenda. Councilor Quinlan seconded.

The administrative assistant proceeded to call the roll, but when she came to Councilor LaBarge, the Ward 6 councilor requested removal of 21.364 An Application for Supervised Display of Fireworks - First Night.

Councilor Dwight withdrew his motion to approve and instead moved approval of the consent agenda with the removal. Councilor Nash seconded. The motion passed unanimously 9:0 by roll call vote.

The following item was approved as part of the consent agenda:

A. Minutes of November 18, 2021 regular meeting

Councilor Dwight moved approval of 21.364 An Application for Supervised Display of Fireworks - First Night. Councilor Foster seconded.

Councilor LaBarge noted that the expiration date of Robert Gutkowski's "Fireworks Certificate of Competency" attached to the application is December 15, 2021.

Ms. Krutzler said she had spoken to Mr. Gutkowski's wife and she said her husband plans to renew his license prior to its expiration. Arts Council Director Brian Foote said he will forward a copy of the renewed license to the City Council office as soon as it is received.

Brian Foote confirmed he would forward a copy of the permit to Ms. Krutzler for forwarding to the Fire Department and state fire marshal. He pointed out that the state fire marshal has already approved the permit as presented.

Councilor Dwight said it is worth noting that it is not yet December 15th so this is an approved practitioner with prior experience providing firework displays in the city. Since the permit has the approval of the state fire marshal, he feels comfortable approving it.

When asked if the Mr. Gutkowski has worked in Northampton before, Director Foote said this will be the third time the Northampton Arts Council has worked with Pyrotecnico. Previously, the Northampton Center for the Arts collaborated with Pyrotecnico for much of the 20-year or more history of First Night. The vendor is well-versed and has good collaboration with other city departments, including the Fire Department and Central Services.

Councilor Nash said he is assuming the fire chief wouldn't allow the fireworks display to go forward if the operator were not in compliance.

That is correct, Mr. Foote indicated.

In defense of Mr. Gutkowski's reputation, Councilor Dwight clarified that Mr. Gutkowski's license has not been revoked, it is merely expiring and in the process of renewal. Mr. Gutkowski has been the sole practitioner of fireworks in the City of Northampton for two decades, he noted. He said he couldn't think of anyone more suited to the job or with the same familiarity and cooperation of every affiliated department. He has no discomfort at all moving forward and approving this, he assured.

There being no further questions, the motion passed unanimously 9:0 by roll call vote.

It is not just a program that offers high school equivalency test preparation; it also offers classes in basic skills as well as college and career preparedness and has strong partnerships in many communities. Staff and volunteers are excited to offer these services in downtown Northampton and other sites in the Pioneer Valley, namely, Ware, Greenfield, Amherst and Orange. condition will be collected this Friday from 4:30 to 8 p.m. at the high school cafeteria and the toy giveaway will take place Saturday from noon to 3 p.m. Residents are welcome to come pick out toys for their kids.

Councilor LaBarge echoed Councilor Maire's announcement of the annual Toy Exchange and Councilor Nash's promotion of the Literacy Project. She also thanked the Rotary Club. The club recently invited Mary Clare Higgins from Hampshire Community Action Commission (HCAC) as a guest speaker and decided to lend its support to help the children of HCAC's Healthy Families program enjoy a special holiday, she related.

Councilor Quinlan acknowledged the range of emotions he experienced this week, including sorrow for the family of Dr. Marty Nathan and grief for the community for the loss of Dr. Nathan's leadership. He has also been giddy with pride due to the accomplishments of two Northampton High School alums - Mount Holyoke College (MHC) senior Elena Frogameni for earning a Rhodes scholarship and Valdamar Brower for leading Springfield Central High School's football team to its 3rd state championship game.

The Council President agreed Northampton has lost a very bright light and a moral compass this week with the death of Marty Nathan.

ARPA Survey and Transition Update

Mayor Narkewicz delivered a Powerpoint presentation with an update on the city's timeline and preparation for deployment of American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds. He also gave an overview of initial ARPA survey results.

In September, he outlined best practices for the distribution/use of ARPA funds, including designing a transparent, accessible and equitable project selection process and leveraging other state and federal resources, he reminded. Per the timeline presented, since the November election, he has been engaged in an administrative transition with Mayor-Elect/City Council President Gina-Louise Sciarra, a big piece of which has been bringing her up to speed on ARPA. After her inauguration, Mayor-elect Sciarra will put together an ARPA advisory committee to gather community input and advise her on the project selection process. Tentatively, in the Winter/Spring of 2022, a request for project proposals will be issued and, in the Spring of 2022, projects will be selected, funded and initiated.

ARPA is principally a COVID recovery fund and, as such, stipulates four principal ways project funds can be spent: 1) responding to the COVID-19 public health emergency and its negative impacts, whether to households, individuals, small businesses or non-profits, 2) paying workers providing essential work during the pandemic (sometimes referred to as premium pay), 3) recovery of lost local revenues and 4) necessary investments in infrastructure (limited to water, sewer or broadband). This spending category fits well with capital program planning, he noted.

Premium pay is something the state is looking at, Mayor Narkewicz observed. Essential workers include municipal workers. With respect to Northampton municipal employees, this will be the subject of collective bargaining next year, he advised.

Mayor Narkewicz proceeded to share top line data of the online ARPA survey, which was completed November 28th. Part 1 was aimed at understanding the impacts of the COVID pandemic on city residents, while Part 2 surveyed city residents on their priorities for COVID response and recovery efforts. Information was collected from October 1st through November 28th from 1,460 participants, nine of which took the survey in Spanish.

Part 1 of the survey revealed that mental, social and emotional health were key issues during the pandemic, Mayor Narkewicz reported. Although strong majorities of Northampton stakeholders reported their status as 'excellent' or 'good' on every measure asked, one in five shared that their household was doing only 'fair' or 'poor' in terms of mental health (23%) and social/emotional health (21%). Mental health also topped the list of problems cited, with 28% 'feeling nervous, anxious or on edge,' 18% 'feeling down, depressed or hopeless,' 16% 'feeling lonely or isolated' and about 13% each citing access to mental health and medical services as problems.

Interesting to note is that today's state announcement on ARPA funding also prioritized health care and mental health services as big areas for funding, Mayor Narkewicz advised. It seems that what Northampton heard is similar to what the House and Senate may have heard in their hearings to assess the impacts of COVID, he observed.

The pandemic created financial difficulties for some Northampton residents, Mayor Narkewicz continued. Economic concerns (14%) and providing remote support to extended family members (13%) are listed as major or moderate problems facing Northampton households. 46% shared that COVID has had a major or slight impact on household income. 19% reported that someone in their household accessed unemployment insurance while 7% took advantage of food assistance. Few reported accessing mortgage, rental or utility assistance or difficulty accessing these services, although 7% said it was difficult to access unemployment benefits.

Of 360 respondents reporting that they have school-aged children, 50% reported that the pandemic had a negative impact on their children's education and 33% said it had a major negative impact (83% of survey population with school-aged children.)

The mayor shared samples of some of the comments gathered.

In survey Part 2, when asked to check their top five priorities for ARPA funding, 52% selected services and shelter for people experiencing homelessness and 50% selected housing assistance. Sustainability/climate change adaptation and mitigation, digital equity and food security were other priorities named.

In terms of most critically-important, city-wide community needs, 75% identified not enough affordable housing as the most important city-wide problem, followed by not enough support for small businesses (53%), streets and sidewalks being in poor condition (51%) and lack of public transportation (48%).

In terms of ARPA next steps, he will be working to finish the administrative transition and compile the final results of the ARPA survey and then awaiting inauguration and the start of Mayor Sciarra's term. Mayor Sciarra will be forming an ARPA advisory committee, issuing a request for proposals (RFP) and, in the Spring of 2022, selecting and funding projects.

Northampton is slated to receive $21,747,984 which must be committed by December 31, 2024, he reiterated. The first payment has already been disbursed, and the second is to be disbursed in June.

Financial officers have been setting up accounting systems and have consulted the city's outside auditor. The auditor has recommended City Council take a vote to accept ARPA funds to document their receipt for state and federal accounting purposes. Some other cities have taken this vote and it is on the council's agenda later tonight, he advised.

Councilor Sciarra said it has been a pleasure going through this transition with the mayor around this exciting money. With regard to the advisory committee, it will have a few jobs, including helping steward the public process around the use of the funds. She wants to get members appointed and lay out a plan for public forums so people can tell them directly their thoughts on how the money should be spent. It will be made up of community members with experience with these categories of use and include representation from the council. She would also like the committee to work on figuring out the application process and helping to review applications.

The survey indicates a lot of pain and suffering going on in their community, Councilor Nash commented. "It's pretty profound," he observed. They as councilors have known it but to see it represented so starkly in these numbers is impressive. It is a survey that really sought to mine into people's state of mind. They are seeing a lot of pain and suffering and he appreciates the priorities that were laid out, he concluded.

Councilor Maire pointed out that new programs and services won't mean a lot if they can't get the word out to individuals in need. Public outreach is often where new services fail, she suggested. A lot of any program's success is just getting the word out to folks that services exists. She advocated for effective outreach across the board. "It's going to take a significant promotional campaign to alert our residents about what might be available," she stressed.

As far as the timeline, she asked if the city will have enough money to start initiating projects before the second installment is received in June.

He thinks they could begin the process knowing that the allocation is coming, Mayor Narkewicz said. Cities and towns have been waiting to see how states will be using the funds, but other communities are planning to begin this process in 2022. The money is supposed to be used for COVID recovery, he emphasized. Infrastructure is limited to very discrete items. There will be an educational component as the program is rolled out.

Councilor LaBarge asked how his department is going to reach out to the many people without computers, and Mayor Narkewicz stressed that the on-line survey was just an initial information-gathering tool. The mayor-elect envisions there being an expanded public process with other ways of outreach including public forums, he assured.

Councilor Sciarra said Councilor LaBarge brings up a good point. If public forums need to be remote, it means they will have to work extra hard to connect with people who aren't able to participate remotely, she noted.

The slide show will be posted to the city website on a page devoted to information about the ARPA program, Mayor Narkewicz said.

Orders City Council Rules Select Committee Final Report	Orders City Council Rules Select Committee Final Report Rules Committee Chair/Ward 7 Councilor Maiore gave an overview of the committee's work. In reviewing the rules, the group's focus was discussing how to make council meetings more concise while still remaining accessible. Members were very proud of Northampton's tradition of allowing public comment although it's not required but wanted to balance that with the idea that council meetings are essentially business meetings. Not conducting their business efficiently hurts equity in another way. Recommendations were thus in service to efficient and accessible meetings, she stated. Because of the ease and inclusivity of remote meetings, the council had unprecedented participation this council term, Councilor Maiore reminded. Rules committee members wanted to retain that accessibility but set some reasonable limits. As an overriding principle, the group resisted any rule change that would result in the council regularly acting to suspend its own rules. This is why they didn't recommend an end time for meetings and why they recommended allowing public comment for 90 minutes rather than an hour.

They also wanted to make sure that councilors themselves could participate remotely and so recommended changing limitations on that and adding family care and child care as acceptable reasons for remote participation.

The group talked in depth about the current practice of the Finance Committee being housed within the full council meeting and fact that, beyond lengthening meetings, it does not provide the public with the optimum level of participation enjoyed in subcommittee meetings. They also recommended the elimination of requiring two votes on every matter (although not two readings) and ceasing the custom of automatically reading documents into the record.

In many cases, members discovered that certain practices considered rules are not rules but rather norms and customs. Because of the way these norms impacted their work, they spent some time unpacking them. Councilor Foster could speak more to norms and non-rule recommendations and other members could speak more about the reasons for other recommendations. She concluded by offering to respond to questions.

DISCUSSION

Councilors asked questions and offered comments. Councilor Nash said he thinks the committee has come up with some worthy recommendations. He asked if this would be in effect for the next council meeting if the council votes tonight. If so, he mentioned being in a quandary about how this would affect financial orders introduced that evening and how they would proceed.

In response, Councilor Sciarra proposed that councilors consider postponing a vote on the order until December 16th. She does think it is important for this council to vote on the recommendations because the resolution passed said they would deliberate and vote on the rules. Also, it would be difficult for a new council to be presented with two sets of rules at its organizational meeting, which is not usually heavy on deliberation.

Councilor Dwight moved to recognize the councilor-elects. Councilor Thorpe seconded The motion passed unanimously 9:0 by roll call vote.

[Councilor-elects Marissa Elkins, Garrick Perry, Stanley Moulton, III and Jamila Gore were present on the Zoom call.]

Councilor Dwight referred to what he's taken to calling Councilor Foster's 'epiphany' with regard to the process for considering financial orders. He invited her to share this concept.

The intent of the change is that financial orders be introduced to the full council as they are now but that the council would then either refer an order to the consent agenda at the next meeting or to the Finance Committee for further deliberation, Councilor Foster explained. At the time of introduction of the order, the full council will have the same access to department heads, the mayor and the Finance Director for clarifying information as they do now. Relatively routine financial orders will go to the next meeting's consent agenda while those needing a 'deeper dive' will go to the Finance Committee. It is not the expectation that the Finance Committee will always need to meet, she noted.

A lengthy discussion followed centered on the mechanics of the process for introducing financial orders and referring them to either the Finance Committee or consent agenda. Councilor Sciarra began by expressing concern that, without deliberation, it would not be possible to make a decision on an order's future disposition.

"How do you make that decision without 'deliberating' on an item that's not on the floor for deliberation?" she asked, referring to the council's custom of requiring a motion and a second prior to extended discussion in keeping with parliamentary procedure.

She is perfectly clear on the concept, but it is still the mechanics she is working on, she elaborated. She expressed her understanding that the relevant motion would be a motion to refer. She asked if the staff presentation would follow this motion.

Councilor Dwight said he doesn't think a motion is necessary in order for staff to make a presentation. After the presentation, they would not be deliberating the order itself but would be deliberating whether the order needs further discussion, he suggested. The council as a whole would make that decision. The order could be put on the floor for discussion and referral in the form of a motion, he confirmed.

"You're not going to debate the item; you're going to debate the referral, and that's important," he stated.

Councilor Sciarra asked if there would be two standing Finance Committee meetings.

Councilor Dwight said his understanding is that there will be one but with the potential for more. Subcommittees will only convene when items are referred to them, or on an 'as needed' basis, he pointed out.

Councilor Jarrett noted that the sticking point seems to him to be the legal question of process raised by Councilor Sciarra. In order to talk about the item and ask questions for clarification, do they need to put it on the floor for discussion? He asked. He suggested they clarify that question with Attorney Seewald. Noting how easy it would be to stray into deliberation, he suggested also seeking clarification about the limits on discussion, if any.

Councilors who served on the committee shared additional insights into the group's recommendations. The group's collective perception of the Finance Committee's importance was one reason for arriving at the compromise of having all councilors participate in the decision of whether to refer financial orders, Councilor Foster said. She and Councilor Maiore both appreciated the Finance Committee being within the City Council meeting because of the resulting ability for other councilors to be heavily involved. However, in the service of trying to streamline meetings, it didn't help to have a separate committee meeting within the regular meeting, she noted.

The reason for increasing public comment from one hour to 90 minutes was the solicitor's concern that suspending council rules to extend public comment could look biased and be perceived as dependent on the nature of the testimony, Councilor Maiore explained. They were concerned that with only 60 minutes they would be called upon to suspend the rules more often.

Councilor Dwight noted that another change being recommended is to incorporate public comment within the body of the meeting so the council's rules would be in effect during this segment.

Additional logistics such as how many of the associated meetings professional staff would be expected to attend were discussed. Councilor Sciarra asked why the Finance Committee itself couldn't report out on what was discussed at its separate meeting rather than requiring staff to attend for this purpose.

If any change presents a problem that's insurmountable, it's always possible for the next council to change the rules, Councilor Dwight reminded. "If it doesn't work, the council will be empowered to change it and make those adaptations."

His council would be, "Don't fear that change," he added. This body has the opportunity to make it work and work better.

Rules Committee Vice Chair Al Simon referred to his background of 18 years serving as an elected member of a town council in another community including 12 years as Finance Committee chair. Based on this experience, the perspective he brought was as someone who was used to doing things differently, so his question was often, "Why are you doing it this way?"

The Rules Committee had a lot of discussion and talked things through. People presented the argument that this is the way they've always done it, which is a natural fallback. He thinks a lot of their recommendations really focused around two pieces: 1) to really use the subcommittees as subcommittees; in other words, letting them do the deep work of asking questions. In line with that, his idea would be to let the committee itself do the presentation to the full council and, 2) to really focus on how to make these meetings more efficient to be respectful of everybody's time – councilors as essential volunteers, city staff and residents.

“You really have to see a lot of the reforms as a package all of which add fundamentally to those two things,” he stressed. They really did spend the time to query why it is done this way and whether they could do it a better way to achieve those goals.

Members noted the following inconsistencies/omissions requiring further amendment:

- ❖ Councilor Sciarra noted the need to add “Financial Orders (Not yet Referred) to the Order of Business. (Councilor Dwight agreed.)
- ❖ Also ‘Resolutions (Not yet Considered’ since there is a requirement in the new rules to introduce something once before it is voted on, Councilor Jarrett added. (Councilor Dwight said that is also correct; he agrees with that.)
- ❖ Councilor Sciarra noted that Section 5.2.2 needs to be modified for consistency with the new option of referring financial orders to the consent agenda.

Councilor Dwight explained the distinction between a ‘reading’ and a ‘vote.’ In the past, the council has interpreted a ‘reading’ as implying a vote but it does not necessarily, he pointed out. First ‘reading’ is when the order is presented and introduced to the council.

Councilors discussed how to proceed. Councilor Dwight said his expectation was simply that the council would accept the final report. He agreed they shouldn't vote on the order tonight because it creates the constraint of functioning under the new rules at the next meeting but he does think they should discuss the recommendations. His recommendation would be not to vote on the order but to merely vote on and discuss accepting the recommendations.

Councilor Jarrett suggested that councilors layout all their concerns and questions and that the rules committee meet in between the council meetings to consider those concerns and possibly come up with amended language.

However, Councilor Dwight said the idea was to solicit the thoughts, concerns and even pushback from the council as a whole. He expressed the opinion that it is therefore up to the body to work out the changes. Amendments can be made on the floor so whatever amendments need to be made can be made at the last meeting, he proposed.

After additional discussion, Councilor Dwight moved to table 21.370 to the next council meeting. Councilor Thorpe seconded. The motion passed unanimously 9:0 by roll call vote.

Councilor Sciarra read the ordinance.

Councilor Dwight moved to approve the ordinance in first reading. Councilor LaBarge seconded.

Downtown Northampton Association (DNA) Executive Director Amy Cahillane is with them, Councilor Maiore noted. The plastics reduction ordinance was the pride of her first term, she shared. She’s glad they passed it and that Northampton is moving forward with it. She started working on that ordinance before she was even on the council, she related.

When sponsors proposed the January implementation date, they knew there was a possibility it would be suboptimal as a start date due to the pandemic and its after-effects, Councilor Maiore said. The request for an extension was precipitated by a call from the DNA director, who wrote a letter describing an across-the-board supply chain issue. As co-sponsor of the ordinance, she wants to give businesses ample time. As an additional consideration, the solid waste coordinator is newly-hired, and DPW Administrator Cynthia Quinn seemed relieved to give her more time to gain her footing. There is also the issue of composting services to match the needs of businesses for increased composting. For those reasons, she is proposing to extend the implementation date to July 1, 2022. What Director Cahillane is describing is an across-the-board issue for most businesses, especially the food service industry.

Councilor Dwight moved to recognize Amy Cahillane. Councilor Maiore seconded. The motion carried 8:0 by roll call vote with Councilor Jarrett recused.

This is a nationwide trend they are seeing reflected downtown, Director Cahillane attested. It is not just pizza places or Chinese take-out; it is system-wide and includes coffee shops and formal sit down restaurants. Businesses are experiencing high prices and difficulty in accessing supplies. Business owners have done the work to properly source the materials - they know what they need to do; they’re just not able to get the supplies and at the same time are facing incredibly high prices, labor shortages, the winter season and COVID. This would just be a very difficult time for them to go through this. In the interest of full disclosure it is entirely possible she will be back to tell them the same story in June of 2022 since there is presently so much uncertainty, she acknowledged.

“It’s not because businesses don’t want to comply; it’s that it’s physically just not possible for them to comply right now,” she presented.

Councilor LaBarge spoke in favor of the postponement.

As the cosponsor, Councilor Dwight pointed out that this was not intended to be punitive; it was designed with aspirations. At the same time, sponsors recognize and acknowledge the frustration because they are proposing this at a time when there is great uncertainty, which is why they built in a lot of exemptions and immersion time. There’s no upside to being rigid about this and inflexible. He thinks it’s appropriate at this time to allow for this delay and for the future council to be prepared for the possibility that there may be adjustments needed to make this work. “This is a wholly appropriate request,” he asserted.

Ms. Cahillane has worked very closely with the Youth Commission, he added. He spoke to them last night and they understood the reason for the delay although at the same time they are anxious to see the ordinance realized. He thinks it is appropriate for them to respond with understanding and compassion and to grant this delay, he concluded.

Councilor Nash commended the spirit of collaboration. The goal is to come up with a cleaner waste stream and not to punish folks, he agreed. Councilor Foster and Councilor Quinlan also spoke in favor of the extension.

The motion carried 8:0 with Councilor Jarrett recused.
